Quippo Telecom participated in the 22nd Industrial India Trade Fair organized by Bengal National Chamber of Commerce & Industry and Government of West Bengal in association with India Trade Promotion Organization. This fair was held from December 23rd, 2008 till January 1st, 2009 in Kolkata. Having evolved into one of the largest shows of its kind in Eastern and North Eastern part of the country, this fair offers a reliable ground for initiation of trade exchanges, technology transfers, joint venture opportunities etc. IITF showcases the industrial progress of India in general and West Bengal in particular and is a platform where businessman, technocrats, entrepreneurs, and service providers converge. Kolkata, apart from being the nerve centre of the Eastern India, also happens to be a natural gateway to Southeast Asia and to some of the SAARC countries in the region namely Bangladesh, Nepal & Bhutan. This renders lot of supply of opportunities for Indian entrepreneurs into these markets.

The exhibition saw an impressive turnout at the QTIL booth. Flyers with information about QTIL were distributed to visitors to the exhibition. We received a lot of Business as well as HR queries

This participation helped us develop a wider and profitable market access for our business particularly in Eastern India wherein rejuvenation of industrial growth and modernization is being accelerated.
